Fingerpicked folk confessionals to roaring full-band singalongs, John's award-winning songs have touched audiences across the world. 100,000 and hundreds of shows across Canada, Europe, and South America, John is building a vibrant, tight-knit community around his stories and songs.

Saturday, November 22, 2025, 7:30 pm — Prairie Debut presents Jâca — Classical Music (Christmas Show)

Cross vivid, folk-inspired melodies with two well-travelled jesters and you'll find Jâca (ZHĀ-ka), a guitar and clarinet duo with exuberant energy, charm and wit. Clarinetist Wesley Ferreira and guitarist Jaxon Williams define their style as world music fused with personality, and are unafraid to experiment with that which captures their fancy – fresh takes on classics as well as composition from emerging artists. Highly skilled musicians and educators, both Wesley and Jaxon hold doctorates in music. From the moment the duo step foot on the stage to the final round of applause, audiences members will find themselves engaged, entertained and enthralled. An evening with Jâca is an encounter with virtuosic performance, cheeky banter, and rhythms that coax you to play along.

Monday, February 09, 2026, 7:30 pm — Ollee Owens — Jazz/Blues

After returning to music a decade ago and releasing 2022's Cannot Be Unheard, Calgary-based blues/rock singer, Ollee Owens, is better than ever with her latest dazzling, down-to-earth studio album Nowhere to Hide which will be released on October 25th. With purposeful authenticity, Ollee creates meaningful points of connection and facilitates emotionally charged experiences with the aim of enriching the sensed worth and value of every person. Combining her original work with unique interpretations of well-known and long-lost songs, the unpretentious backdrop of Owens' acoustic duo creates a dynamic setting for her incredibly diverse vocal range. Tenderly comforting, passionately yearning, assertively warning, and warmly inspiring – an encounter with Ollee Owens will not only be memorable but meaningful.
